Fleming's is the New Downtown Chicago Steakhouse Destination

Monday, December 1, 2008

Downtown Chicago is loaded with great steakhouses, such as Gibson's, David Burke's Primehouse, Capital Grill, Keefer's and Kinzie Chop House. Now we can add another restaurant to list that is located in the heart of the Windy City. Fleming's Prime Steakhouse and Wine Bar made its debut a few months ago and is certainly a destination that folks are flocking to. Although Fleming's is nationally renowned for its Prime beef and steakhouse fare, their seafood selections, such as Tuna

Mignon, Seared Scallops and Barbecue Scottish Salmon Filet are also very popular. Their dining room ambiance is elegant, but not pretentious. Their premise is to be sophisticated and comfortable without being overpriced.

Fleming's is critically acclaimed for its simple fare. They serve tantalizing side dishes family-style and have five different potato preparations. Their appetizers and salads complement the menu and the calamari is a must try. Scrumptious desserts such as Chocolate Lava Cake, Baked Peach Cobbler, and Creme Brulee are made from scratch daily.

The Fleming's 100 is their award-winning wine program that features 100 wines-by-the-glass. The wine list features boutique wines and other well known labels from around the world. Special 2-ounce wine tasting pours allows diners to select the perfect wine with their meal. The Reserve List offers more than 80 limited-availability wines by the bottle from internationally renowned wineries.

Fleming's is located at 25 East Ohio St. just two blocks from the Magnificent Mile. They are open seven days a week and are currently offering a special prix fixe menu. Their four private rooms are reserved for meetings or private dining. For more information visit www.flemingssteakhouse.com.
